BELLE GLADE-Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida, Inc. President George Wedgworth announced last week the resignation of General Manager William J. Miller Jr., his replacement by Charles J. Schiele and three other promotions within the cooperative.

Miller, who has been general manager of the Glades Sugar House since 1961, has accepted a similar position with Azucarera Nacional, S.A. in the Republic of Panama, where he will take over the operation of a mill, refinery and distillery in January.

"Mr. Miller joined the cooperative in 1961 as general manager," Wedgworth said in an announcement last Thursday, "and became vice president in 1970."

"During his distinguished career," Wedgworth said, "he has provided forceful leadership throughout the planning, mill construction, expansion and successful operation of the cooperative. On behalf of the membership, board of directors and employees of the cooperative, we wish Bill the greatest of success in his new venture."

Wedgworth said Schiele, a former general manager of Florida Sugar Corporation and Florida Sugar Refinery, Inc., joined the cooperative in 1973 as personnel and public relations manager. He said announcement of Schiele's replacement will be made at a later date.

In the meantime, Wedgworth also named Enrique R. Arias to the newly created position of executive vice president.

"Mr. Arias was associated with us as resident manager for the general contractor during the construction of Glades Sugar House in 1961-62. He was vice president of operations for the National Sugar Refinery Company in New York and Philadelphia prior to rejoining the cooperative in 1970 as vice president (in charge of planning).

Guillermo Aleman is promoted from factory superintendent to mill division manager. Wedgworth said he will retain his function as chief of fabrication, a position which he has held since mill operations started in 1962. He became factory superintendent in 1967.

South Bay hires manager

SOUTH BAY-The City Commission decided during its regular meeting Tuesday evening to hire a city manager, the first since John Flynn was fired four years ago.

The commission accepted the application of Richard Merz of Flemington, N.J., who now holds the chief administrative position in that city.

The commissioners unanimously voted for Merz out of a stack of about 20 applications received for the position. The decision was based on Merz' acceptance of the $17,000 salary offered and a requirement he lived "in the immediate area."

Merz appeared before the commission in February after the city advertised for a finance director. The commissioners at that time wanted to hire him for the city manager slot but City Attorney James Gann said they couldn't do that because they hadn't advertised for a manager.

The only person ever hired by the city specifically as a city manager was John Flynn, who was fired in late 1974 during a meeting in which Commissioner Vernita Cox, who was then mayor, accused him of insubordination.

Shortly after that the commission named August Dreese to continue with the police chief's job he already held and assume the city manager's role as well.

Dreese left Florida shortly after that when a doctor said the area was bad for his wife's health.

After Flynn was fired, the city re-hired A.R. Grigsby as the city's finance director in charge of personnel. Grigsby asked the commission several times to name him city manager but the commission consistently refused and Grigsby resigned last fall.

The commissioners also settled a law suit and five-year old debt by deciding to pay Howard Needles, Tamman and Bergendoff $12,500 for an engineering job completed in 1973.

The firm had designed improvements to the city's water system but when the city advertised for bids to have the work done, all the bids came in considerably higher than anticipated.

The firm advised the commission to reject all the bids, which the city did, and later billed the city $15,500 for services performed.

Then City Attorney Allen Everard advised the city that since the work of improving the water system hadn't been completed, the city shouldn't pay the firm.

Chris Lamberton of the firm appeared before the commission Tuesday with the firm's attorney, Earl Gallup, and said the firm had tried for four years to get some response from the city or its attorney and finally decided, "reluctantly," to file suit, "something like hitting a horse over the head with a two by four."

The $12,500 was a compromise figure between the $15,500 requested by the firm and $10,000 present City Attorney James Gann said the city would probably have to pay.

In other business, the commissioners:

- Agreed to donate $50 to the St. Jude's Foundation for Catastrophic Diseases for Children. Commissioner Vernita Cox said she is chairman for the foundation locally and the donation would go toward a special hospital in Nashville, Tenn.
- Heard a presentation by Community Development officials from the county.

RUTH WEDGORTH and Hattie Fields show off the plaques they were presented Saturday during a luncheon sponsored by the Palm Beach County Commission on the Status of Women.

Ruth Wedgworth, Hattie Fields honored

If the population in the Glades is low compared to that of the county as a whole, the caliber of its women isn't, as was shown Saturday when a third of the women honored at a luncheon represented the Glades.

Mrs. Ruth Wedgworth of Belle Glade was recognized for her achievements in business and industry and Mrs. Hattie Fields was recognized for her achievements in community involvement.

The occasion was what is expected to be the first annual women's recognition luncheon, sponsored by the Palm Beach County Commission on the Status of Women, at the Helen Wilkes Hotel in West Palm Beach.

A total of six women, nominated by clubs, agencies and organizations throughout the county, were nominated in six fields. The other four fields represented were education; art, literature and music; health, and law and government.

Mrs. Wedgworth was nominated by the Belle Glade Woman's Club and Mrs. Fields was nominated by the Urban League. There were two other finalists from the Glades also, as well as a third who is originally from the Glades.

The other finalists included Dolly Hand in law and government, Bee Wood for her contributions in the health field and Marjorie Creek in education.

More than a hundred people were on hand for the awards luncheon, according to women who made the trip, including county leaders in a variety of fields, some of whom presented the plaques.

Mrs. Wedgworth is president of two local firms, Wedgworth Farms and Wedgworth, Inc. Until recently, she was also president of a third firm, Wedgworth's Produce, Inc. until that business went out of celery farming.

An active person in the community, Mrs. Wedgworth has also been, and still is in some cases, a member of the Belle Glade Bicentennial Committee, the Belle Glade Woman's Club, the Black Gold Jubilee Committee, and the

Virginia Walker is first Certified City Clerk in the Glades

SOUTH BAY-City Clerk Virginia Walker this week was notified she had become the first person in the Glades to become a Certified Municipal Clerk.

The title, which is held by few city clerks in the state and by no one in the Glades area, was earned by Mrs. Walker following a week-long class she and Belle Glade City Clerk attended at Florida Atlantic University last week.

Mrs. Walker explained the certification was made after she had earned 100 points which were assigned for a variety of reasons.

A total of 50 points were awarded after the clerk completes three of the courses such as Mrs. Walker completed last week. She attended courses given over the past three years.

Other points are earned by on-the-job experience, some are earned by experience in management in other areas and still more points are awarded for other reasons.

Holding down her position as city clerk in South Bay for the past nine years, Mrs. Walker said she was notified Monday of her certification, which entitles her to membership in the IIMC (International Institute of Municipal Clerks).

She said the letter she received indicated she would be receiving a pin and a plaque commemorating her achievement.

Belle Glade City Clerk June Boglioli also attended the Municipal Clerk and Finance Institute sponsored course last week and was named president of the class.

To process 22 food items

Cannery is dedicated

BELLE GLADE-A $1.737 million food processing and canning plant dedicated last Thursday at Glades Correctional Institution by Secretary of the Florida DOR (Department of Offender Rehabilitation) Louis Wainwright is an indication of a backward swing of the pendulum, he said.

Wainwright said the movement over the past decade to stop all work programs within the state's prisons, with the exception of educational and training programs, may have gone as far as it could go.

He said the latest figures show Florida's prisoner population of more than 20,000 is now the fourth highest in the nation, following only Texas, California and New York.

With more than 4,000 more prisoners this year than last

Wainwright said facilities such as the new plant at GCI are needed to try to hold down the expensive cost of incarceration.

He said that budget for this year is $160 million but the new plant should keep it from skyrocketing still higher.

The new plant is expected to produce 22 different food items and Wainwright was on hand to pick up the first can of green beans after the equipment was first brought on line as a crowd estimated at more than 150 watched.

Besides canning vegetables, Wainwright said he had been assured by production manager Robert Stonessier the equipment can also be used to produce such foods as cake mixes.

Most of the items to be canned and processed will be brought in from other DOR facilities but Wainwright said the 640 acres at GCI will be more efficiently used now.

"I feel we're using the inmates' time more efficiently and effectively," Wainwright said, in producing the plant's anticipated output of 110,000 cases of food items annually.

"At a price of $8 a case," he said, "that adds up to almost $1 million of processed foods a year."

The processing room in the facility consists of three lines of equipment, only one of which was being used last week when the equipment was cranked up for the first time.

Ernest Amadee, industrial supervisor, said

ERNEST AMADEE shows a group of observers what green beans look like after they've been through the first station of the processing line at GCI's new canning and processing plant during its first run last Thursday.

Today is Thanksgiving. To many, it will be a celebration featuring turkey and all the trimmings, football and a relaxing day around the house with family and friends.

Thanksgiving is the result of a small band of people who paused for a day to honor their God. I believe for the most part they were frightened people who did not know what would be their fate in the coming weeks.

For they had accepted the supreme challenge of venturing into a new land and building a home in the wilderness.

They came to this new world because of religious beliefs and because they were not allowed to worship their God in the way they saw fit.

This week, there were reports of another band of pilgrims who journeyed to a new land and carved a home from the wilderness.

But for them, the ending was not the same. Almost 400 of these people will not be here to give thanks on Thanksgiving Day.

Men should be allowed to worship in the way they see fit. Upon this base, the United States has bloomed.

But people are still ridiculed and worse for their beliefs. Others, militant people who make their religion in not believing, use the Constitution which forbids interference between church and state to force their non-beliefs on others.

When will we learn tolerance for others and their beliefs? Perhaps never. The history of mankind is studded with accounts of persecution of one group by another, and this history will doubtless continue to be repeated.

In the meantime, we should not try to add to that history. Be tolerant of others. Until such time as they begin to challenge you and your belief, you should not challenge theirs.

Cults such as the one in South America don't usually last long. Their faith is built on sand and sooner or later, the followers of the cult begin to take note of that fact and become disenchanted.

Other faiths are built of stronger stuff and give people direction in living their lives. These faiths endure.

The best way to deal with cults and cultists is to ignore them. Reason with them if you wish, but the true cultist is beyond reason and only he or she has the power of observation needed to see the shallowness of the faith being followed.

We have much to give thanks for this Thanksgiving, and for the great majority of Americans, one of the things we should really be thankful for is that the faiths we follow are strong and enduring and just.

I will spend turkey day with family and friends in Fort Myers, a chore that comes once a year.

But this year, I'll get them back.

In the past, my in-laws and out-laws have brought casts of kids to these outings and they were the times that tried my soul, having been away from children for a number of years.

But this year, I'll take my two "well behaved" youngsters to the annual gathering and watch them sweat!

Ah, revenge thou art so sweet.

Have a good Thanksgiving.

Canning plant

The dedication of a $1.3 million canning and food processing plant at Glades Correctional Institution last Thursday is an indication, as Secretary of the State Department of Offender Rehabilitation said, that the state may be back on the right track.

The pendulum has started to swing back toward a more realistic concept of how to handle state prisoners.

Rather than cutting off all work programs, as was being proposed over the past few years by idealists who spoke more from their feelings than their intelligence, the powers that be have decided that to use the prisoners in productive labor can only help.

It helps the state by making it at least a little less costly to house the prisoners and it hopefully helps the prisoners by instilling the work ethic in them while they're incarcerated.

And if the work ethic is instilled in a criminal while he's being housed at state expense, he may not become a returnee to the state system...particularly not if he's able to put his work experience in prison to use by getting a job in the same area in the free world.

Which doubles the benefits to the taxpayer, and that's why the new plant is encouraging.

Good scouts

There is a truism that the more a person becomes involved with his community, the more he's asked to become involved in other projects while the majority of people in that community go their merry ways.

That's why it's sorta nice when someone who has become involved is recognized and why it was sorta nice Friday when the Glades District honored Dr. Robert Allen with the Award of Merit, the highest honor the district can bestow.

Dr. Allen and W.C. Taylor, who won a special award of his own, deserve some praise for their work on behalf of the Glades area's youngsters.

What's even nicer is knowing the Gulfstream Council, of which Glades District is a part, is now one of the most successful councils in the country...and it has to be because of the work of men like Dr. Allen and Mr. Taylor.

The Scouting movement, nationally, has declined in numbers of leaders and participants for the past five to six years, with each region of the country, up until this year, grading out against each other on the basis of how slow the reduction of numbers was.

This year, the Southeast region, for the first time in several years, actually grew by one percent while all the other regions continued to decline.

The Florida Area grew by two percent and the Gulf Stream Council grew by ten percent, and that's why we say it could be the fastest growing Council in the nation.

What's more, the Council, which definitely grew faster than any other Council in the state, grew in all three areas of Cub, Boy and Explorer Scouting.

A request to serve should be given serious consideration. After all, they're our youngsters and if they're involved in Scouting, they're not as apt to become involved in some less desirable pursuits.

Lend a hand.

Election lesson

One lesson that did come out of the negative sweep on the propositions, unless it was a matter of throwing out the baby with the wash, was that the voters of Florida don't want their bureaucrats appointed.

They didn't want an appointed cabinet. They didn't want an appointed school board and they didn't want an appointed Public Service Commission.

Several commentators have commented the vote against the appointive PSC was little more than an exercise of futility, since the legislature has already made the board appointive and increased its number from three to five.

But as State Senate President Phil Lewis noted election night, the legislators aren't dummies. With that kind of a negative vote, there are bound to be some legislators prefling bills to reverse their decision and make the PSC offices elective again.

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

Don't you know it must've killed the Soviets' souls to ponder to those Senators who were junketing through the Soviet Union last week?

Breshnev seems to've kept his cool but the lawmakers had Koysein climbing the walls, tellin' 'em he didn't need a lesson in civics, that he understands how the American government works.

If he really understands, I wish he'd explain it to me because I took civics in high school and enough courses in political science to've gotten a bachelor's degree and I don't understand it.

Matter of fact, I'm not all that sure I understand how political works in this country either.

So, come on, Alexei, tell me how those senators you talked to can spend up to $6.4 million to get a job that pays $57,500 a year...and still say they don't owe anybody any special favors.

And since you claim to understand how our gov'mint works, how about an explanation of how an elected body like the Senate can justify ratifying treaties a majority of the people in the nation are dead set against.

That oughta be easy since the only reason you were talking to 'em was because you know they gotta ratify the SALT II treaty...assuming Peanut Head ever decides to sign it and send it to the Senate.

There are a few other areas I'm sorta muddly on too, so if you don't mind, could you tell me how somebody can keep on spending more than they make year after year and still not be worried about eventually going bankrupt.

Something else I'm not too clear about is how a country, whose agriculture industry is the most efficient in the world figures it can keep on giving away the bounty from its farms when it has a trade deficit with almost every nation it does business with.

Or maybe you can explain why kind of sense it makes for a government of that country to allow nations which own almost as many dollars as we are in the country to continue to buy farm land at prices higher American farmers are priced out of the market.

Since you understand how the government works, maybe you could also tell why all the troublemakers of the world, congressmen think they have to visit for on-the-spot investigations so often turn out to be Paris, Bimini, London and Rome.

Aren't there any troublemakers in the Congo, or Borneo's jungles or Greenland?

While you're at it, you might explain how the American government lets a rag-tag bunch of sixth rate countries dictate American foreign policy because they happen to meet in that glass monolith in New York.

There are a few other questions I have too but one that bugs me at the moment concerns the comment made by one of your people who figured it was a sign of disrespect for those senators to tell you some of the things that could slow passage of the SALT II treaty.

"This is not," I believe he said, "the role of politicians. Who are they to speak this way to government leaders?"

Who are they, indeed?

I don't know what you call 'em over there, Alexei, but over here, we call politicians government leaders...even though we realize these leaders aren't on the same scale as the bureaucrats.

Since they can spend so much to get their jobs, we do like to give 'em the benefit of the doubt...even when we know, and they know, it's only lip service.

I do know that much about government here in the United States. We do seem to elect the government leaders even if the gov'mint (there's a difference) leaders stay in office through their term and then cause they got Civil Service to protect 'em.

For the rest, I'd sure appreciate a lesson in civics.

Temporary permit is issued

Two major steps were taken last week by the South Florida Water Management District in an effort to protect the quality of water entering Lake Okechobee.

The first is acceptance of the proposed conditions of a temporary operating permit (TOP) from the Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) for the various pumping stations and control structures surrounding the Lake. The second was an authorization for the staff to set-up a high level, multi-discipline conference on water management issues associated with Lake Okechobee.

Lengthy discussions at the District's Governing Board meetings Nov. 16 and 17 resulted in the Board's acceptance of the DER's permit conditions. The TOP is scheduled to run for 30 months, during which time the District will be making chemical analyses, providing discharge information, and developing programs for reducing the amount of nutrients entering the Lake.

The complexity of the problem of reducing nutrient loading to the Lake was pointed up in a technical report regarding possible alternatives to backpumping water into the Lake from the Everglades Agricultural Area, to the south of the Lake.

Although the District's operations staff felt some of the water backpumped currently could be diverted to the south, consequent problems of water quality and added quantities of water flowing into the Conservation Areas and Everglades National Park were pointed out.

It was also noted that the diversion could have minimal effect on the overall nutrient loading of the Lake, but could lessen water supplies to areas which depend on the Lake during dry periods.

Recognizing the scope of such planning efforts necessary to draw up programs for the Lake's entire drainage basin, which covers nearly 3,700 square miles, the DER's proposed conditions provide that:

Within 30 days of issuance of the permit, the District must present a plan for immediate actions to reduce loadings;

Within 120 days of issuance of the permit, the District must present a written plan of study for an analysis of the probable water quality, water quantity, and land use impacts, as well as costs of each reasonable management alternative which will reduce the total phosphorus and nitrogen inputs to Lake Okechobee to acceptable levels; and Within 24 months of issuance of the permit, the District must submit that finished analysis.

To help define those alternatives, assess the possible impacts and the District Governing Board took it's second step, authorizing the convening of a major water management conference regarding Lake Okechobee.

Although details will be announced as specific arrangements are made, the Board instructed the staff to tap all affected government agencies and other sources of input in developing the design of the conference. The Board scheduled the conference for Jan. 25-27 in the West Palm Beach area.

School board member speaks to Kiwanians

BELLE GLADE-School board member Art Bougae was the guest speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Belle Glade Kiwanis Club, on Thursday Nov. 16.

Bougae gave a talk on the problems of education and the reasons for them. According to Bougae we have a state system of education and all decisions made on the county level have to be approved and sanctioned by the State Department of Education. We are also under federal court order as far as education in Palm Beach County is concerned.

The School System of Palm Beach County is one of the larger ones in the United States, but we have not really grown in the number of school age children in several years. One reason for the obvious decline of public education in the Palm Beach County School system, Bougae said, is that at one time there were two different systems of education one black and one white, in schools now there are still two different levels, only they are called public and private.

Before 1970, according to Bougae there were no real standards for becoming a teacher and there was a lot of people teaching schools who are not equipped to teach properly. Also today's teachers for the most part are just working to the contract, doing just as the contract says and nothing more, he said, to really reach the children. Busing is also one of the problems we are still facing and there is no end in sight at least not in the foreseeable future. We are also being taxed to the brink in the county and getting very little back to work with as far as education is concerned. There has been a lot of progress made, but a lot more needs to be made and the school systems needs a lot of help and understanding, Bougae said.

Prominent former resident dies

Word was received about noon, Thursday, November 18th, of the unexpected death of O.G. "Mac" McWhorter, 71, brother of Belle Glade residents Mrs. Frank Dooley and Mrs. Lorenzo Connell. McWhorter succumbed to a heart attack after only a few hours illness.

"Mac" was born in South Carolina, moved with his family to Florida at an early age, was a graduate of Summerlin Institute, in Bartow. He attended Auburn University and the University of Tennessee, where he met his future wife, Louise Turner, of Knoxville, Tenn.

After their marriage in 1931, the McWhorters came to Belle Glade where Mac was a produce buyer and broker. He was connected with the late Lewis T. Creech for a few years, then employed by the late H.H. Wedgworth. He stayed with Wedgworth's for approximately 14 years as Sales Manager. After retirement from the produce business, he was engaged in raising cattle and selling pasture grass. He was instrumental in obtaining the cattle market for Belle Glade. His interest in residential construction resulted in the development of East Lake Park subdivision.

Being a sportsman, Mac was one of the persons responsible for the development of the original Bell Glade Country Club and golf course.

When ideas were being formulated for building Glades Day School, McWhorter was approached and donated land for its construction. The school auditorium was dedicated to and named for his mother, Dora B. McWhorter.

Upon his retirement to Stuart, Mac became interested in real estate, which led to his current involvement in development of the Greers Ferry recreation area land, including an air strip and residential sites.

He is survived by his wife, Louise, of Apt. 42, Mariner's Cay Port Salerno; brother Charles of Clewiston; sister Mrs. Milton Carr of Gaithersburg, Md., in addition to the aforementioned sisters and many nephews and nieces.

Friends wishing to remember him may contribute to the Heart Fund, the Dora B. McWhorter Glades General Hospital Fund, or the Glades Day School.

MAXINE JOYCE

FORT MYERS—Funeral services for Maxine Joyce, 78, a former resident of Pahokee, will be held at 1 p.m. Friday, Nov. 24, at Harvey's Funeral Home.

Mrs. Joyce died Monday at Lee County Hospital. After living for ten years in Pahokee, she more recently made her home here.

She is survived by a son, Sam Joyce of Vero Beach; a daughter, Francis Rogers of Fort Myers; two sisters, Mrs. Ruby Tucker of Canal Point and Mrs. Alene Brennan of Satellite Beach; four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

GCI Jaycees start annual project

BELLE GLADE—Members of the Glades Correctional Institution Jaycees are once again beginning their annual Christmas project of cleaning up and repairing toys for disadvantaged children.

The Jaycees are collecting toys at the GCI gatehouse, where they can be dropped off by anyone with new or second hand toys they care to donate.

The toys will be cleaned up, painted and repaired and donated to children who otherwise wouldn't have something new at Christmas time.

A Look at the Cross on THANKSGIVING

"Surely he hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows: yet we did esteem him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted."

"But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed."

"All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and the Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all." Isaiah 53:4-6

Our prayer this Thanksgiving Season is that everyone will attend the house of God, giving thanks unto him for his great gift, which is eternal life through his son.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Artists present club's program

PAHOKEE—Marjie Laks and Nola Nagler, local artists, presented the program at the Pahokee Woman's Club luncheon meeting, November 16, with Clark Wilkinson, vice-president, presiding.

The artists displayed some of their lovely paintings and discussed the fundamentals of using oil as a medium. They utilize both the brush and knife technique in producing the effect they wish to achieve. As Nola explained and answered questions, Marjie put a blank canvas on the easel and entertained the audience by painting a picture of orange flowers, violets and greenery on a yellow background, which was most attractive.

Mrs. Nagler and Mrs. Laks received their instruction from the well known artist, Ann Tyler, of Belle Glade.

The date of the Christmas Bazaar for the Pahokee Woman's Club has been set for Saturday, December 9, at the clubhouse. Ann Johnson and Julia Wilkinson are co-chairmen of the event.

Santa Claus (by special arrangement) will make his appearance at the Bazaar, and good little boys and girls may have their pictures made with him.

Each club member is expected to donate a baked item for the bake sale at the bazaar, also, some craft article, and an ornament for the Christmas tree, suitable for sale.

A cordial invitation was extended by Ethel Johnson, to attend a party at the Woman's Club on Monday, Nov. 27, from 2 to 4 p.m., honoring her mother, Sarah Hendrickson, on her birthday. All members of the club, of the Happy Friends group, and her friends from her church and the Garden Club, are invited to come and help her celebrate.

Clark Wilkinson, chairman of the Arts Department, was in charge of arrangements for the program and luncheon. Tablecloths, napkins and plates were decorated with Thanksgiving turkeys, and other typical holiday motifs were used throughout the clubhouse.

Assisting her on her committee were Hilda Wilkinson, Ann Johnson, Marie Wilkinson, Maggie

Pope and Uldene Todd.

FPL

This symbol on your new home means that it has been certified by the builder as meeting the energy-saving standards in FPL's Watt-Wise Living™ program. It means that the builder has added enough energy-saving features into your house to allow full comfort and convenience while using approximately one-third less electricity than conventional homes.

With these energy-saving features, you'll be enjoying lower electric bills without sacrificing comfort or lifestyle.

In addition, the desirability of a Watt-Wise

Living home should increase its resale value.

Under our program, FPL scores each home according to the energy-saving options incorporated into its design and construction. The options may include ceiling and wall insulation, thermally efficient doors and windows, glass areas optimized to match floor plan designs, high efficiency cooling and heating, solar water heating, and other power saving ideas such as fluorescent lighting, or super-insulated water heaters. Your builder should have the complete list from FPL.

Homes designed, built, and equipped in the Watt-Wise™ manner contribute materially to the essential national goal of energy conservation. Purchasers will have demonstrated a conscientious interest in helping conserve our nation's reserves of scarce fuels while lessening the need to build more costly power plants.

Local cricket club winner

The South Shore Cricket Club, champions of the South Florida Cricket League, won a post-season presentation match 4-0 Sunday against a team comprised of the best players in the 10-team South Florida Cricket League, says team member Earl Whyte.

The government of Jamaica was represented by Jamaican Counsel General Emerson Barret and Minister of Mining and Natural Resources Horace Clark. Barret presented the South Shore Cricket Club with the Counsel General's trophy for its outstanding play during league play.

The South Shore club finished ahead of the other nine South Florida Cricket League teams by posting an 18-2 record for the seventh month season.

Whyte says South Florida Cricket League play has drawn a sizeable group of Americans as spectators. "We hope we can introduce cricket into America," says Whyte of the sport which at present is played mostly by Jamaicans who come to South Florida to work for sugar companies. "We think we can modify cricket to attract Americans," says Whyte.

The South Shore Cricket club undertakes projects to raise money for worthy causes. It recently donated $3,000 to the Hendry County schools for playground equipment. The club's next fund raising effort will be a victory dance Saturday, Nov. 25, at the El Ranchito Club in Belle Glade beginning at 9 p.m.

The following are members of the South Shore Cricket Club: Eutim MacLarty, Earl Whyte, Clinton Heath, Joseph Fisher, Ezra Pollard, Richard Walcott, Derrick Ferguson, Mervin Sam, Morris Griffiths, David Astrul, Hedley Rashford, Sam Romley, Malcolm Whitthall, Joseph Sears, Reynold Warren and umpire Henry Westcarth.

Belle Glade Chamber dues are increased

BELLE GLADE—Members of the Board of Directors of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce discussed a variety of items last week at their regular meeting, but noted dues will have to rise this year to meet increasing obligations.

Fred John gave the directors an update on the new building, citing the history and need for the building and how the Chamber and city would work together on it.

John said the city wanted a resolution that the Chamber would pay the architect's fee as per prior agreement. The directors were told that bids came in higher than expected but that there was no indication from the city that an increase would be any higher.

BERNIE LEE RETRACTION

BELLE GLADE—The Belle Glade Herald was informed this week a mistake was made in last week's announcement of Saturday night's Belle Glade Policemen's Ball.

Bernie Lee informed the Herald his band did not play for the ball as had been announced in the story.

The directors agreed to a resolution that the Chamber would pay the architect's fee and investigate the possibility of paying it along with the monthly rental. They also recommended the building be constructed as bid.

It was noted the Chamber lost only $32.40 this year on the annual banquet, much less than in years past.

On the matter of dues, the directors approved the new dues schedule which will increase member dues by an average of $10 per year. This would bring in revenues of around $14,000 for the year.

President Charles B. Trammel noted there has not been a dues increase in the past ten years.

Trammel also recommended that a letter be sent to each member telling him exactly what the Chamber does for him each year. The letter will also be published in local newspapers.

The director agreed to participate in the Black Gold Jubilee this year but said there was no hope for sponsoring the boat regatta and abandoned all plans for it.

Lions hear story of program for blind

BELLE GLADE—Karen Barvinski was the guest speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Belle Glade Lions Club last week. Miss Barvinski is a rehabilitative worker with the Lighthouse for the Blind, in West Palm Beach. She runs a program for rehabilitating the blind in the Glades area on Tuesdays from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The purpose of the program is to teach blind people the basic skills of daily living, so they are able to live in a competitive society.

She also said the program teaches such specialized skills as reading, writing and typing. According to Miss Barvinski there are presently four different programs, the first being the Pre-School Program, which is primarily geared to the parent of blind children.

She said it is very important to teach a small blind child the same basic skills you teach a normally sighted child at the same age, so that when they do become school age they will not be six years behind in learning ability. At the present time they are trying to "set up" a full-time program for this age group in the Glades area.

The second program is called Shelter Workshop, this is for people who cannot work in a competitive society, it gives them a job and a little money of their own. There is also a program now which is training the blind person to be medical transcriptionists, in the 20-45 years old age group.

The fourth and final program is the Evaluation and Training which takes all the skills that the individual person has and shows them how to improve upon them. At the present time, Miss Barvinski stated she is doing all of the work and transportation herself and is seeking volunteers to help her in the program.

At the present time there are eight people in the class and she said that she has eight more on a waiting list. If she had enough volunteers she might be able to help the other eight a lot sooner.

Local youth selected to College Who's Who

MARS HILL, NC—A Belle Glade student, John Charles Trammel, has been selected to become a member of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Only 25 seniors from Mars Hill College were selected for this high honor. They were nominated by a committee of 15 students and five faculty members and their selection was based on participation and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities, citizenship and service to the school, the promise of future usefulness and acceptable scholarship.

The students will receive their certificates of recognition during Honors Day activities in the spring.

The Who's Who program has annually honored outstanding campus leaders for the past 40 years. Its goal has been to further the aims of higher education by rewarding and recognizing individual excellence on a national level.

With the support of over 1,000 colleges and universities throughout the country, the program is geared to reflect the excellence of the American college student.

In addition to having their accomplishments presented in the 1976-77 edition of Who's Who, students members are entitled to use special reference/placement services maintained for the exclusive assistance of students seeking post-graduate employment fellowships at no charge to the student, prospective employer or graduate school.

Dr. Bob Allen honored with Scouting award

BELLE GLADE—Dr. Robert Allen was presented the Award of Merit, the highest award which can be presented on a district level, Friday night during the annual Glades District Scout Recognition Dinner.

The award was presented by Roy E. Burch, who was re-elected president of the District Council earlier in the meeting, for his services over the past years to Scouting in the Glades.

In another presentation, District Executive Tom Fletcher gave his annual Spark Plug Award to Pat Lucey and special awards were presented to W.C. Taylor and Alma George, who were given certificates saying they had been inducted into Scouting's World Hall of Fame.

Training Awards were presented to Frank Jones, J.D. Moran and Royal York and several awards were given to various other Scout leaders.

One scout was singled out by Fletcher, who said David Van Diver, of Clewiston's Troop 619 will be attending an international jamboree in Iran in the near future.

Officers installed for the coming year, who were present, were President Roy Burch, Membership Chairman Frank Jones and District Commissioner Pat Lucey. The program for the night consisted of slide presentations given by Fletcher, who told how for the past two years area scouts were taken to the Bahama Islands on sailboats out of Stuart, and Jones, who recounted his experiences on a training trip to Philmont Scouting Ranch in New Mexico.

Before the seminar begins, Joyner will hold his monthly plant clinic, from 1 to 2 p.m., at the Glades Agricultural office. The clinic is designed to assist people who have problems with various plants in their landscapes and need help in diagnosing what the problem is and how to correct it. The clinic is an informal affair and isn't structured. Anyone who can't come to the office is encouraged to call Joyner at 996-4800 and he will attempt to help them over the telephone.

There will be several informational pamphlets on citrus selection and care given out to those attending the seminar.

Pat Lucey, who is also a citrus grower, will conduct the seminar, said the seminar is designed to assist county residents in the selection and maintenance of dooryard citrus and will include a slide presentation. "A number of people," Joyner said, enjoy raising citrus in their dooryards or perhaps even in containers but are unfamiliar with the best varieties they should

Equivalents distributed to students

BELLE GLADE—Lions Club members had something to celebrate Wednesday when they were told scores given in grade point averages (GPAs) were being distributed to school children from the second through ninth grades this week for the Stanford Achievement Test.

West Area Administrator H.W. "Dick" Berryman told the Belle Glade Herald about the GPA distribution Wednesday morning after some complaints had been heard that the first SAT results were being distributed to parents in the form of stanines.

The SAT scores have been reported for the past few years in what is known as stanines but the Lions asked the school board this year, during a series of meetings, to report the grades in grade point averages (GPAs).

Following the long series of meetings and demands and, after a number of explanations by the administration why stanines were preferable, the Lions still weren't convinced and the administration agreed to report the SAT results in the Glades in GPAs as well as stanines.

Berryman said Wednesday morning the SAT scores were first reported (the first of this month) in stanines only and that a number of parents had already picked up their children's results at open houses in area schools.

"On the second run the grades are also reported in GPAs," he said. All the schools should have them this week and they should be distributed to all the students by Dec. 1.

BELLE GLADE—Members of GARC (Glades Association of Retarded Citizens) will hold an organizational meeting at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Municipal Civic Center according to Tricia Graves, GARC coordinator.

will conduct the seminar, said the seminar is designed to assist county residents in the selection and maintenance of dooryard citrus and will include a slide presentation.

superintendent to assistant mill division manager. Wedgworth said he will also continue as chief engineer. Arvesu joined the cooperative in 1963 as assistant chief engineer, becoming chief engineer in 1966. In 1967, he was promoted to assistant factory superintendent and chief engineer.

All the new appointments become effective Dec. 1 and Miller said he will be available for advice and consultation until he leaves for Panama.

Miller said he is a third generation member of a family connected with raising and processing sugar cane and his two sons are the fourth generation.

"You can call me a TTT," Miller said, explaining the term has traditionally been applied to "Typical Tropical Tramps". "I was a gleam in my father's eye in Cuba but I was born in New Orleans."

Miller said his father and grandfather were part of a group of men who lived and worked in the Caribbean sugar industry but who returned to New Orleans to find their wives.

As an infant TTT, Miller said he went to Cuba, where he spent his first ten years before returning to live with his "grandfolds" in New Orleans.

He attended Riverside Military Academy in Gainesville, Ga., where he said the football coach was Red Grange and one of his classmates was Tommy Prothro, coach at San Diego until recently.

"I remember that at the first Gator Bowl," Miller said, "there weren't two colleges playing. It was Riverside Academy and a New England school."

After graduating from the University of Georgia with a bachelor's degree in forestry (I don't know why because I don't know a damn thing about trees.) Miller almost found a military career with the 82nd Airborne Division during World War II.

As a second lieutenant, Miller jumped into France during the small hours of the morning of June 6, 1944, hours before the D-Day invasion of Normandy began.

As a 24-year old major, with the permanent rank of captain, Miller visited his family in Cuba in 1946. "I just wanted to see what it was like. I sort of liked it (the military) and I didn't think I'd be getting out."

A few weeks later, Miller said he found himself starting to work with a sugar plantation in Cuba, riding a horse in the fields ("You can have the best mill in the world but if you don't have cane, you don't have anything so they wanted to start me there.")

By the time he was 29, Miller said he was general manager of a mill. ("And I still have a copy of the set of orders promoting me to major.")

By September 1960, "when Fidel asked me out of Cuba," Miller was managing two sugar mills, a distillery, a yeast factory, a cattle operation and a port facility in the province of Camaguey with The Francisco Sugar Company.

"I had a home in New Orleans I had bought," he said. "That and a little investment was all I got out with."

Two other things he escaped from Cuba with, however, were his experience and contacts in the sugar industry and that was enough the following summer to land a job managing the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative which was just getting off the drawing board, as was much of Florida's sugar industry.

"It's been a very satisfying experience here," he said, "and it's been made easier by the people I've worked with; the board of directors, the owners, other people on the staff and the workers. I owe them a lot."

After more than 17 years, Miller said he hates to pull up roots and move but he is looking forward to, "a new challenge, a new experience and, for me, a new country."

She is a past Citizen of the Year, chosen by the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce when the title was still Man of the Year, and Florida Farm Bureau's Farmer of the Year.

Mrs. Fields, who said Monday she remembers working at times for Mrs. Wedgworth and her husband before he died in 1938, began her life as a migrant field worker, progressing through a multitude of jobs and projects before reaching her present position as target area director covering Belle Glade and South Bay for the Community Action Council of Palm Beach County.

With 20 years experience as a farm worker behind her, Mrs. Fields is in a position to understand the migrants she has worked with in a variety of programs.

She has worked with, and was instrumental in developing, programs such as the health care center in Clewiston, food stamps, VISTA, and the Community Mental Health Center-Glades branch.

A deeply religious person, Mrs. Fields has throughout her life taken part in and organized religious services among the farm workers and continually refers to God as a source of inspiration and help.

She was featured in a story and cover photograph in the August issue of Guideposts magazine. The story concerned a 13-acre garden she organized for the poor and the elderly who couldn't afford to buy vegetables.

The farm is still in operation, serving more than 300 persons in the Belle Glade area and she said this week her next project is a cannery.

erintendent at the prison, explained that after the beans, which started at one end of the line by being dumped into revolving drums which clipped off the ends and went through a series of operations which steamed them, cut them into the proper lengths and canned them, off the line at 180 degrees Fahrenheit.

At the end of the line, they're placed in large, perforated steel baskets, 75 to the basket and weighing 600 pounds loaded, which are then put into large pressure cookers where the final cooking is done.

"They're taken up to 180 degrees," Amedee said, "to pull a vacuum. We put three of the baskets into each of the pressure cookers for about half an hour." Each of the cookers holds three baskets.

The final product is labelled and distributed to prisons and other types of institutions all over the state.

The plant was designed by Peacock and Lewis architects of West Palm Beach and built by Fisher-Payne Construction Company of Fort Lauderdale. Construction began in July 1977.

Besides Wainwright and Amedee, speakers on the podium were GCI Superintendent E.V. Turner and Dr. Janet McCordell, director of this district of the state.

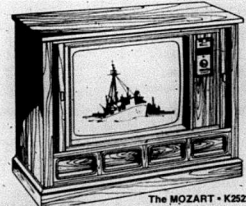

Other guests included H.G. Cochran, who preceded Wainwright as director of the old Division of Corrections which grew into the Department of Offender Rehabilitation, and superintendents of several other DOR institutions.

Municipal League's meeting site changed

The Ninth Annual Palm Beach County Municipal League's Politicians' Barbecue and Fish Fry will be held at a different location this year because of high water at the Belle Glade Marina.

The annual event, sponsored by the cities of Belle Glade and Pahokee, for the entire municipal league, will be held at noon, Dec. 8 at the Pahokee Lions Club at 1377 East Main St. in Pahokee.

The barbecue was held every year during December and is one of the best attended meetings held by the League during the year. The first eight barbecues have been held at the Belle Glade Marina.

The three cities in the western part of the county traditionally host the party and bear all the expenses and this year it almost became a victim of increasing costs.

Both the Pahokee City Council and the South Bay City Commission at first decided they didn't care to sponsor the party this year but agreed to continue it on a reduced scale and at a lower cost.

Driver is charged in accident

PAHOKEE—A Rivera Beach man was charged with reckless driving when the dump truck he was driving collided with a cane truck. Arbus Davis of Rivera Beach was charged after the dump truck he was driving rammed the rear of a cane truck driven by Johnie Walker, 31, of 548 S.W. 23th Street Belle Glade.

Walker slowed to make a turn 2.2 miles west of Twenty Mile Bend, and was hit from the rear. Walker was taken to Everglades Memorial Hospital by ambulance and treated there for a broken leg. In another incident, Pahokee Police Department officials said a window was broken out of the Foodway supermarket last week.

According to investigators, the window was broken with a beer bottle.

Damage was estimated at $300.

Raider thinclads 15th in state

BELLE GLADE—The Glades Central cross country team earned 15th place in the state cross country meet held last weekend in Jacksonville, the first state meet the Raiders have ever qualified to be in.

The seven runners on the Glades Central team were among the 158 Class AAA runners and the Raiders were among only four schools represented by the county, including Pahokee, Atlantic and Boca Raton.

Coach Willie McDonald said Robert O'Neal was the first runner finishing for the Raiders, finishing 39th. Other Glades Central runners finishing were Willie Tyler at 52nd, Patrick Raymond at 84th, Richard Ford at 89th, Bobby Brereton at 93rd, Levell Moreland at 106th and Renard Bennet at 108th.

To give an indication of the quality of competition, McDonald said one runner, who was in third place, stumbled and fell and by the time he picked himself up and crossed the line, he was 16th.

McDonald wound up his first season with the cross country at the meet. He credited his success to what he calls his rabbit drill. "It works like the dog track," he said. "I carry the team out to the Pahokee Airport and start the slowest runner off. I give him a head start of 500 yards, then start the next slowest runner and so on.

"By the time they reach the dike at the Municipal Marina," he said, "all runners have to have caught the first runner or they have to run an extra mile."

As an extra treat for the team members, McDonald said he stopped at Daytona Beach on the way back to Belle Glade, taking them onto the beach and on the Bethune-Cookman College campus.

PAHOKEE—Local football fans got their money's worth Friday night as the Belle Glade Central Raiders won 14-8 over the Pahokee Blue Devils with less than a minute left in the game.

The winning score was made by the Raiders' Johnny Rowe, who ran the ball in from the 15-yard line with about 45 seconds left in the game. Rowe also scored his team's first touchdown during Belle Glade's first possession of the ball at the beginning of the game.

The Raiders, who had to forfeit their first two games because Rowe was judged ineligible at the beginning of the season officially 3-3 in the conference and 5-4 overall. However from an actual win-loss standpoint, Belle Glade is No. 1 in the district.

After trading touchdowns in the first quarter both teams battled scoreless after Belle Glade made the winning score. Ironically, Pahokee held the lead until that time, having scored a two-point conversion after its first quarter TD.

The loss put the Blue Devils in a three-way tie for the Suncoast West Conference title. Other school in the tie are Suncoast and Atlantic.

"Glades Central's first score culminated a 62 yard drive in five plays following the opening kickoff. Rowe rushed four of those five times and scored on a 13-yard run.

Pahokee retaliated later in the quarter after Blue Devils linebacker Doug Thompson intercepted a pass from Raiders quarterback Terry Hammond at the Belle Glade 35-yard-line. The Devils drove to the 2-yard-line in six subsequent plays, setting up a TD run for fullback Samuel Owens.

Sylvester Kelley then ran for the two point conversion to put Pahokee ahead by one point.

From that point until late in the third quarter the game was a see-saw battle with both teams turning over the ball on fourth down.

The moment of truth came when Pahokee quarterback Ronnie Osborne fumbled the ball on the Raiders' one-foot-line. From that point until Belle Glade's last minute score, the Blue Devils slowly lost momentum.

Pahokee coach Antoine Russell agreed that the fumble was the turning point in a game between two good playing ball clubs.

"We got a break and didn't capitalize on it," he said. "Belle Glade got a break and did."

"We both played a good game," he continued. "The loser can walk off the field proud."

Although disappointed that his team did not make the playoffs, Russell was pleased with his team's season performance.

Season record is 9-1

Gators blast Westminster

BELLE GLADE—The Glades Day Gators finished their season with a very respectable 9-1 record Friday when they crushed Class AA Miami Westminster 41-7.

The Gators used a bruising ground game featuring Winston Byrd who gained 104 yards on 17 carries before being injured in the second half to advance past Westminster.

Basil Markham carried 17 times for 82 yards and Julio Rivas carried only six times, but gained 63 yards. In all, the Gators racked up 373 yards rushing for the evening.

Quarterback Nacho Bueno passed seven times for 41 yards on two completions while Westminster's total passing and rushing yardage together amounted to only 117 yards.

The Gators had painted the numbers 15 and 52 on the backs of their helmets to honor Jason Shelton and Jon Scruggs. Shelton was injured in a game and was out for the season and Scruggs was hurt Wednesday when a car radiator exploded, giving him second degree burns. Both Scruggs and Shelton had been standouts for the team all season long.

The game against Westminster could not help the Gators much in the way of championship hopes since the Gators had already been eliminated from the playoffs due to a 14-12 defeat at the hands of Benjamin.

The Gators got their first touchdown against Westminster in the opening quarter on an eight yard run by Bueno. Mark Foster's extra point kick was good and in the second quarter, Bueno repeated his performance by racing 19 yards to score. Again, Foster kicked the extra point.

In the second half, Byrd made a touchdown on a six yard run in the third quarter but Foster's kick was blocked and in the last quarter, the Gators scored three touchdowns, Byrd getting one on an 11 yard run, Bueno on a 13 yard run and Rivas on a two yard dive. Foster kicked extra points on all of them.

The only Westminster score came when the Miami team recovered a fumble in the end zone in the third quarter. Miami also saved one touchdown when they intercepted a pass in the end zone.

Coach Byron Walker said defensive standouts included Markham who called all the defensive plays and the entire secondary who stopped the Westminster passing attack. Bruce Sweet and Kenny Strickland both had two quarterback sacks and Mark Foster recovered a fumble.

It was the second highest rushing game for the Gators this year, the highest being against Orlando Trinity when the Gators gained over 400 yards.

"It was a complete game for us," Walker said in summing it up. "Both the offense and the defense got it all together. Our players wanted to go out of the season in style."

Christian Day Crusaders wrap up season with win

BELLE GLADE—For the first football season in four years, it wasn't at all bad.

The Christian Day Crusaders wrapped up their season last week with a 3-5 record and a 19-0 win over Kings Academy's junior varsity team.

Kent Davis scored two touchdowns and Jesus Armas got another when he intercepted a pass and raced back for the six points to lead the team to its victory.

"It was a good way to end the season," said head coach Ken Lassiter.

The last time the Crusaders fielded a team was back in 1974 when they went 1-7 for the year.

"During the Kings game, Davis rushed for over 100 yards and he was backed up by eighth grader and quarterback Alex Morales, who Lassiter said did a good job.

On defense, Steve Woods led the pack with ten tackles followed closely by linebacker Bill Evans and Armas and Tony Duboy in the secondary.

Eighth grader Stuart Hatton at defensive end turned in a good performance, said Lassiter, by keeping Kings turned into the inside and allowing the secondary to get to the ball carrier.

"We won three of the four JV games we played this year," said Lassiter.

Next year, the Crusaders hope to schedule the smaller Class A teams and follow pretty much the same game format as this year.

"We gained some valuable experience this year," said Lassiter.

ONE OF GLADES DAY'S rare passes against Westminster finds its target even though defended by two of the visitors. The Gators won the game handily and wound up their season with a 9-1 record.

GCHS leads conference on field

BELLE GLADE—With a skip-up game left to play Wednesday night (before press time) with North Shore, Glades Central took the lead of the Suncoast West conference on the field with a 14-5 win over Pahokee Friday Night, but lost it in the courtroom Monday morning.

The win over Pahokee would have given the Raiders the conference lead, after already winning the District 14AAA title because the Raiders had only lost one conference game.

But that loss was matched by two more awarded by the Florida High School Activities Association in the form of forfeited games to Atlantic and Jupiter High Schools.

Those forfeits were appealed at the FHSA level and an attempt was made to appeal them in court but Circuit Judge Thomas Johnson refused to hear the appeals.

Judge Johnson said the forfeits didn't deny any of running back Johnny Rowe's rights and the Glades Central Athletic Council had no right to appeal the FHSA rulings. He said Glades Central would have to be the one to file suit and Palm Beach County School Superintendent Thomas Mills refused to allow the school to sue.

With the door to the courts slammed by Mills, any further chance to appeal the two forfeits to Atlantic and Jupiter were doomed Monday morning as the Raiders began preparing to play North Shore in their last game of the season.

The forfeits were awarded by the statewide committee in a ruling following the third game of the season, in which the Raiders apparently looked up the district championship with a win over Cardinal Newman without the aid of Rowe.

Rowe, of course, was the center of the controversy born in Belle Glade. Rowe returned during the summer to live with his grandparents.

Glades Central Principal Effie Grear said the school ascertained at the county level Rowe was eligible to play ball for the Raiders as far as his residency went.

But when a story was written about the beeffooted runningback, in the Palm Beach Post, a rumor began in town that he'd been recruited from Germany, where his father is serving as a staff sergeant in the U.S. Army. A few people in Belle Glade even believed Rowe was a German by birth.

Seeking to quench the rumors that Rowe was illegally recruited, Dr. Grear decided to ask the FHSA for a declaratory judgement and, when Assistant Principal Norman Shearin and Athletic Director Graham Frost went out Gainesville to ask FHSA Executive Secretary Floyd Lay for the Ruling, a rule was uncovered.

Raiders...

great," he said. "We were 6-4 and went to the playoffs last year; this year we are 7-3 and didn't get in the playoffs."

Statistically, Belle Glade ran over Pahokee, accumulating 249 rushing yards to Pahokee's 61, and 94 passing yards to Pahokee's 60.

Belle Glades' leading rusher was Rowe with 198 yards on 31 carries. For Pahokee it was Sam Owens with 20 yards on five carries.

Earlier this year Rowe was the center of controversy at Glades Central. He was declared ineligible for two games in which he participated, causing the Raiders to forfeit their first two conference victories over Atlantic and Jupiter.

He later won a hardship ruling and was given the right to play. But the school has of yet been unable to reverse the decision of the forfeitures.

which requires a student to live with the same parent or guardian for one calendar year before becoming eligible to play.

Lay refused to make a ruling, however, and turned the matter over to the FHSA Executive Committee, who decided Rowe had been ineligible to play the first two games but, because of extenuating circumstances, would be allowed to play the remaining games of the year.

A written appeal was made to the executive committee by T.J.

Cunningham, a West Palm Beach Attorney retained by Rowe's grandparents and the Glades Central Athletic Council, earlier this month.

Cunningham was notified by Lay the matter would be decided by the committee during its regular session and he would notify Cunningham of the committee's decision.

But when the appeal came before the committee, it was quickly dismissed when one committee member reportedly noted that if the school wasn't interested enough to come to the meeting, the appeal wasn't very serious.

Cunningham took the matter to court last Thursday morning but that was when Judge Johnson refused to hear the case because the athletic council was the plaintiff.

Cunningham said Tuesday morning he was working on an appeal to the Fourth District Court of Appeals, asking for an emergency hearing on the ruling by Judge Johnson.

Offices to be closed

County governmental offices will be closed today and Friday (Nov. 23-24) in observance of the Thanksgiving holiday.

Vehicle inspection stations, usually open on Saturdays and closed Mondays, will reverse their schedules for the holiday period. Stations will be closed Friday and Saturday but open on Monday Nov. 27.

The county governmental offices will reopen at 8:30 a.m. Monday.
